FAMILY OWNED
SINCE 1986

Built by family. Shaped by time.

They say having children changes one’s priorities in life. This was the case with Bill and Lynn Creek, who started their family printing business from their home in Berowra shortly after their youngest daughter, Chey, was born in 1987.

a trusted name for schools and clubs across Australia - known for consistency, care and service that lasts.

From the beginning, the company has also given back, donating $2 from every shirt sold to not-for-profit organisations.

“We feel grateful that our family’s passion has turned into something bigger — a business that honors and serves our community with pride.”

Bill left his role as a teacher at Turramurra High, bringing with him a deep understanding of the pressures on schools and sporting clubs. That insight shaped the Crocodile Creek Shirts experience, making the process easy for organisers and enjoyable for students.

Today, Chey leads the business with her husband Ryan, continuing the legacy. Crocodile Creek is proud to support thousands of students each year and remains committed to service that is efficient, personal and proudly Australian made.

Their dream was simple: bring joy to school-aged kids through quality, locally-made garments that celebrate pride and belonging. Over the decades, Crocodile Creek has grown into
